Today's Brilliance: Carly Alyssa Thorne

Carly is a multi-awarded, multi-media transformational Paying-It-Forward instructor and presenter.

If I could share 100 words of wisdom to someone when they started on the path, these are the important things that would be most helpful to them...

Life is precious and so are you... Take, give, and embrace each and every minute. There is a new day and I am ready... are you?

I am so much grateful for all that I have learned in my 47 years and counting. Some lessons were fun, some painful, and in each there was always a choice to grow or not.

I made sure to learn from my mistakes and apply the journey of self and others by following these principles:

- Listen to your body. The mind, body, spirit connection is a vast field of multi-sensory information that is always in session and quite to us, if we stop, listen, and breathe.
- Learn that the art of seeing, hearing, feeling and communicating are the foundations to any good, healthy, long term relationship of any kind.
- Love your body, love it and nurture it with healthy, whole foods. Doing so gives us so much more energy, awareness, and strength.
- Don't work. Why would anyone want to lose weight when the result makes one usually regret when using everything to get there? Doing so instead choose to release all unwanted baggage and create a healthy daily discipline.
- Love completely. Why hold out if things are, it was a journey that both parties learned, grew and gave from.
- Never stop time. Be willing to disagree or say sorry or no - and be forward about it.
- Love life full each and every day: dance, sing, live fully in everything...
- Embrace transformation. Change. Like going from ocean to flight, to the great unknown or new experiences, transitions, and adventures... and then, going on the journey to live in new heights.
- Always be open, honest and authentic, and speak from a compassionate, passionate cause.
- Never stop on all these in time. Don't A, then B, then C, forget yourself and others, and then come on together into the unknown. Our world has made us into these amazing people that we presently are, so how can one regret the past. It doesn't brand us, our inner and outer being.
